Welcome!

Haverim,

It is our pleasure to bring you this collection of lectures and educational opportunities. We hope that you will find many that are compelling enough to include in your plans for The Season.

When you have perused the brochure you will find that many of the topics have a connection to antisemitism. Seventy-four years after the end of the Shoah, most of us would not have imagined years back that we would be dealing with this alarming rise in antisemitism both in the U.S. and around the world. It has become a sickness that permeates every part of our society.

Hence from The Protocols of the Elders of Zion to a discussion on Islam and many stops in between we have tried to cover this over the centuries and from various angles. We have even convened a discussion on how to respond to attacks, comments on BDS and claims of apartheid . Please come hear what those who deal with this often have to say, bring your friends and family so they can learn too.

Hope you find much to engage you. Looking forward to seeing you at classes and lectures.

GETT

An Israeli woman (Ronit Elkabetz) seeking to finalize her divorce from her cruel and manipulative husband finds herself effectively put on trial by her country's religiously-based marriage laws, in this riveting drama from sibling directors Shlomi and Ronit Elkabetz (Late Marriage and The Band's Visit) who is also one of Israeli cinema's most acclaimed actresses. In Israel there is neither civil marriage nor civil divorce; only rabbis can legalize a marriage or its dissolution, which is only possible with the husband's full consent. Viviane Amsalem has been applying for a divorce for three years but her husband Elisha (Simon Ebkarian of Casino Royale and Persepolis), will not agree. His cold intransigence, Viviane's determination to fight for her freedom, and the ambiguous role of the judges shape a procedure in which tragedy vies with absurdity, and where everything is brought out for judgment, apart from the initial request.

Laura Blumenfeld

"The Best Revenge: A Jewish Response to Antisemitism"

In a climate rife with religious sectarian violence, political tit-for-tat, and a resurgence of antisemitism world-wide, Jews are searching for a smart response: What will it be, an eye for an eye or turn the other cheek? Veteran diplomat, journalist and best-selling author Laura Blumenfeld shows us the way, taking us on a global tour of humanity's darkest impulses -- from Syria to Albania to Sicily to Iran -- where she interviewed dozens of avengers. With a surprising twist, Blumenfeld answers the timeless question and offers a spark of hope: what is the best revenge?

Laura Blumenfeld is a best-selling author, Middle East analyst, and a senior fellow at the The Philip Merrill Center for Strategic Studies at Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies. She previously served in the US State Department as senior policy advisor for the Middle East Peace Process. Blumenfeld spent two decades as a reporter for the Washington Post, covering the Middle East, national security, and presidential politics; she has also been a senior fellow at the German Marshall Fund and a public policy fellow at the Wilson Center. She is the author of Revenge: A Story of Hope (2002), a global study of the dynamics of revenge and an account of her search for the Palestinian terrorist who shot her father. Blumenfeld holds a bachelor's degree from Harvard University and a master's degree from Columbia University.

“How to respond to antisemitism with StandWithUs”

Carly Gammill serves as the Director of the new StandWithUs Center for Combating Antisemitism. Carly has been active in fighting antisemitism, including the anti-Israel, antisemitic BDS campaign, on campuses, in local communities, in court, and at the United Nations. Her passion for this work, particularly on campuses, derives in part from her background in the educational field where she saw firsthand the crucial need for students to learn not only the facts that make up history but also the invaluable lessons that history teaches in the present to help ensure a future where the mistakes of our past are not repeated.

As a non-Jew, Carly's work combating antisemitism also stems from a deep personal conviction that the world, including people of other races and religions, cannot afford to stand by silently while the Jewish people are once again targeted, marginalized, demonized, and harmed. Looking at instances of traditional antisemitism as well as more current situations, and using an engaging interactive approach, Carly offers practical tools for addressing antisemitism, both as a response to specific incidents and as proactive measures that look toward preventing further occurrences of antisemitism.

Rabbi David Blumenfeld

"Modern Insights Into The Bible Through Archaeology"

There are a number of approaches to understanding the Bible. The credibility of the biblical text though is sometimes challenged by modern thought. By examining the "facts in the ground" by way of archaeological findings, past and present, a deeper appreciation of the Bible's accuracy is accomplished.

January 8 - Tel Megiddo – Armageddon "The Source"

Some say that Megiddo is "the jewel in the crown of biblical archaeology." Monumental finds, mighty fortifications. Inspiration for Michener's "The Source." Armageddon – site of the epic "final days" battle.

January 15 - "The Ancient City of Jericho"

One of the earliest continuous settlements in the world. First town attacked by the Israelites under Joshua. Dame Kathleen Kenyon's technique at Jericho. Called "the grand lady of archaeology."

January 22 - Israel Lives!

"The Moabite Stone, Merneptah Stele, etc..." Early extra-biblical references to the Israelite nation and its God by other nations. What were they saying? Recent finds.

January 29 - "The City of David – Astonishing New Finds"

Mount Zion's true location. King David's tomb. Recent discoveries – royal structures, original pilgrims' path leading up to Temple Mount, seals belonging to biblical personalities, etc.

February 5 - "The Enigma of the Dead Sea Scrolls"

The discovery of the cave-scrolls above Qumran has embroiled modern scholars in rancorous disputes that have lasted to this day. The Isaiah Scroll, The Manual of Discipline, The War Scroll, The Damascus Document, The Temple Scroll, The Copper Scroll – and other scrolls, each represent astonishing revelations that deeply affected Jewish views during a critically dangerous time in Jewish history. Also, do they reflect significant Jewish origins in early Christianity?

Rabbi David Blumenfeld (Ph.D., DHL) was ordained by the Jewish Theological Seminary. He is a graduate of Brandeis University, and studies Comparative Religion at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He received his Ph.D. degree from New York University in the field of Near Eastern Languages and Literature and was awarded a Doctor of Divinity degree, "honoris causa" from JTS. Rabbi Blumenfeld served as a spiritual leader of Congregation Tifereth Israel in Glen Cove, NY. He afterwards served with distinction as the Founding Executive Director of the New York Holocaust Memorial Commission that created the Museum of Jewish Heritage in Battery Park (N.Y.C.)

10:00AM-11:00AM

Rabbi Mark Staitman, Adjunct Senior Fellow, Center for a New American Security

A variety of "technological advances" have appeared in the last two decades. We will look at three of these through the lenses of Jewish Law and Jewish Philosophy. Over five weeks we will look at how Judaism responds to change today.

February 12 – A look at how Jews in Germany in the late 19th and early 20th centuries confronted "new technology" by exploring False Teeth or False, Teeth.

February 19 & February 26 – A look at the problems we now confront because of the rise and availability of DNA analysis. "Am I My Brother's Brother; No Longer an Only Child" and "Who's Your Mama" will give us a better understanding of the dilemmas which are so difficult for us today.

March 4 & March 11 – We will take a visit into the internet, both social media sites and the deep dark web. We will probe the implications of the loss of privacy and the loss of a sense of security.

Rabbi Mark Staitman is well known in the Pittsburgh Jewish Community and in the Soviet Jewry advocacy movement. Rabbi Staitman served the Rodef Shalem congregation as Rabbi until 2003. Rabbi Staitman is a Licensed Professional Counselor and he maintains a small private therapeutic practice which specializes in therapy for clergy who suffer from the effects of trauma.

6 Ways to Combat Antisemitism

Whether you are in high school, college or fully adult, there are many ways to combat the scourge of antisemitism. We can do a great deal to identify and refute antisemitic content and behavior. Here are 6 suggestions for doing just that.

1. Expose incidents of anti-semitism by reporting dangerous online posts or sharing signs of antisemitic behavior with social media moderators (online) or community authorities.
2. Educate friends and colleagues about antisemitism. Many people who aren't directly affected by antisemitic attitudes or content may not even recognize it: it can be blatant and violent, but often it can be nuanced or coded, like a reference to "globalists" or an illusion to conspiracy theories about prominent Jews in business, finance or politics.
3. Contact policymakers. Write or call your elected representatives about subtle forms of antisemitism, particularly sanctioned anti-Zionist writings and protests. We need to advocate in spiritual and political arenas.
4. Become active on college campuses. Students can participate in their campus Hillel, SWU or other organization to plan and execute pro-Israel events and educational programs. It is important to fight the BDS movement that is making in-roads into the minds of young adults and hence adults.
5. Challenge revisionism. The Holocaust wasn't "just another genocide". The Tree of Life shooting wasn't another act of domestic terrorism. Jewish people have been subject to persistent discrimination, persecution and violence throughout history, and we must fight against negating these actions against us.
6. Support organizations that fight antisemitism by strengthening Israel and the Jewish people. A stronger Israel means a better and more secure world for all Jews and all people. We cannot take Israel's survival for granted.

Silence can be deadly. Don't wait for someone else to take a stand against antisemitism or hate in any form. Join the fight against antisemitism and anti-Zionism. Any and every action counts, whether it's a trip to Washington DC, a trip to Israel or a simple social media post. Everyone can do something.
